120° sofa

Combination sofa

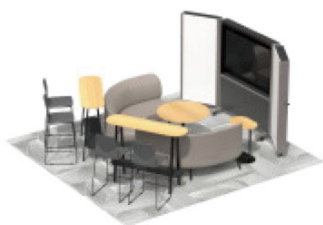

It's possible to easily create working and conference privacy even in the largest open plan spaces. The open area becomes a coexistence space of work and rest.

The semi-enclosed design is easy to intersperse at workstations, providing a collaborative space for communication and flat decision-making at any time.

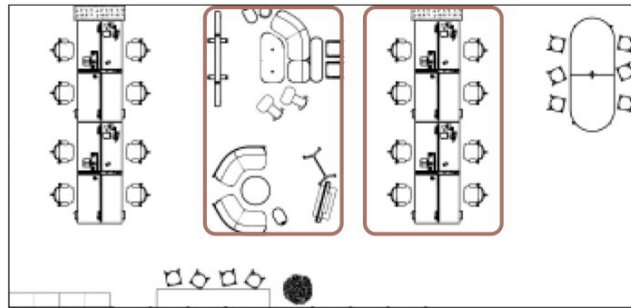

Inter-station cooperation area

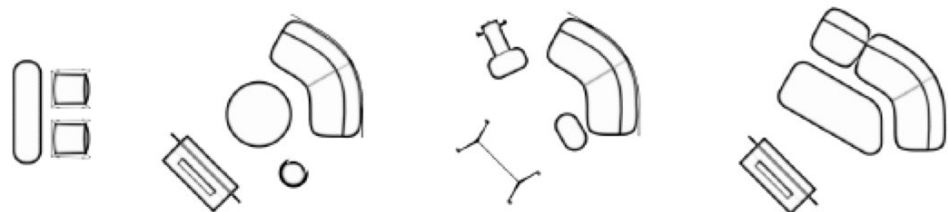

Productization of Spatial Arrangement

Productization of application scene would allow the replacement of existing workstation combinations at any time. Suitable for different needs of different scenarios.

Other ways of combination

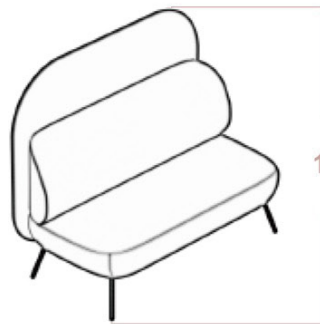

Multiple meetings can be convened to solve multiple problems at the same time. Meet various demands of meetings through combinations.

Mixed collaboration area

Privacy

Provide semi-private space in an open office environment to provide the necessary privacy for users.

1200mm

Privacy screens

1200mm from the screen to the ground.
It is just enough to cover the head after sitting down.

Independence space

Independence

The Bloom, configured in a single-person U-shape, harmoniously integrates with desk tops and side tables to sculpt intimate semi-private niches. These secluded havens enable employees to immerse themselves in their individual tasks with heightened focus, fostering a personalized workspace that encourages productivity and concentration.

A 2-seat workstation setup, featuring privacy screens and desk tops, offers an elevated sense of visual and acoustic privacy. This arrangement creates a laid-back, interactive zone for independent work and relaxed meetings, perfect for clients seeking a semi-secluded office scene.

Leisure area

Experience Upgrade

Multiple options of table boards are available for specific scene combination to enhance office experience upgrade.
